BIG SANDY LINES.

B. & O. and C. & O. Roads
Said to Have Agreed.

Result Will Be Double Tracked Big
Sandy Line With Both Roads
Using It.

New York, Oct. 24.—John A. Proctor's dream is about to be realized. Twenty-five years ago he was calling attention to the unsurpassed riches of Eastern Kentucky, and declaring that the Elkhorn coal field was the most valuable deposit in the country. The time was not ripe, the railroads were not ready, but today there is a development in this field, the importance of which is realized more clearly everywhere else than it is in Kentucky.

It is known that the Louisville and Nashville railroad, after purchasing the Louisville and Eastern and the Louisville and Atlantic, made contracts for the extension of these lines far into the mountains. The fact is the L. and N., under the leadership of Mr. Milton H. Smith, is repeating in this section of the country the work it did 30 years ago in the State of Alabama around Birmingham.

Before the L. and N. made contracts for these extensions it had a guarantee from the land syndicates and coal mine operators of an annual tonnage of 1,500,000. It has now realized that the development of this section would necessitate the practical rebuilding of the original lines purchased by the L. and N. 30 years ago.

The Chesapeake and Ohio built its Big Sandy branch from Shelby across the country to the Tennessee line or thereabouts. "We spent, said one of the officers of the C. and O., "eight and a half millions to bottle up this business for our own future benefit."

It is a business that no longer can be "bottled up." The gentlemen whose combined interest has been mainly responsible for the recent movement in this territory, secured rights of way and made contracts for building a line to connect the terminus of the L. and N. extensions with the terminus of the C. and O. division.

This line plowed right through the Elkhorn coal field. It has recently been leased to the Baltimore and Ohio, which now has a road to the Ohio river.

This lease brought into this region the third railroad interest, to the great chagrin of the C. and O. railroad.

The C. and O. managers were, for while disposed to resent this action on the part of the mine owners and the syndicate, but "it was a condition and not a theory" that confronted Mr. Stevens and Mr. Wall.

At a conference with Mr. Willard last week, it was made clear to the C. and O. officials that they had to do one or two things.

They had to spend millions more on their branch, double tracking it, rebuilding bridges and consenting to the joint use of the property by the B. and O.

Or they would have to meet the competition of a parallel line built by the B. and O. to connect its new purchase with its line to the Ohio river.

When this was plain, the C. and O. officials came to an understanding with the B. and O. officials, in order to prevent paralleling of this valuable line of its own. The result is that the B. and O. railroad is now in the very heart of this district, competing on equal terms for this great traffic future with the L. and N. road and the C. and O. Cincinnati Enquirer.

On Thursday evening last Miss Victoria Gifford entertained a few friends with lunch and delicious refreshments. A delightful time was experienced.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Poter, son of W. Vn., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pauley. Mrs. Poter is Pauley's sister.

A MONUMENT TO HIS MEMORY.

The children of the late Judge J. H. Dean, a former county Superintendent and County Judge of Lawrence county have recently erected a handsome granite monument to the memory of their respected father. Dr. L. H. Dean, of Whites Creek, W. Va., a son of the deceased, and the Rev. J. A. H. Barrett and wife, of Riverton, were here on Monday last on business connected with the erection of this lasting tribute of respect to the departed parent. Mrs. Barrett was Miss Helva Dean, Judge Dean's daughter. Mr. Barrett was a former well known citizen of this county and lived on the East Fork.

DIED IN WASHINGTON.

The friends of Miss Emma McHenry, daughter of Mrs. Lizzie and Fred McHenry, deceased, died at her home, near Seattle, Oct. 19, of liver trouble. She had been sick about five weeks. Her age was 28 years.

KILLED IN MINE.

Garred Hughes, a Native of Lawrence County, the Victim.

A most distressing accident happened on the farm of William Musle, near Cannonsburg, yesterday afternoon, when the life of Garred Hughes, a coal miner, was crushed out in a fall of slate and earth in a coal mine. Mr. Hughes was opening an old abandoned bank for Mr. Musle, and evidently had been lux about his props and timbers, and was thus caught by the fall of slate and earth. He was buried about ten feet deep, and it took a number of men nearly an hour to remove the dirt and rock sufficiently to remove the man's body. When removed the spark of life had fled and all efforts of resuscitation proved unavailing.

Mr. Hughes leaves a wife and six children to mourn his death. He was a man well thought of and respected in the community where he lived. He was a member of the Red Men's Lodge of Coalton, and this organization went to Cannonsburg, where they had charge of the funeral services. The burial took place in the Cannonsburg cemetery.

The foregoing is taken from the Ashland Independent of Tuesday. Mr. Hughes was born and reared near this city and lived in the Busseyville neighborhood until he went to Boyd county about two years ago. His brother, David Hughes, was informed of the sad accident Tuesday in time to take the train for Catlettsburg. The deceased was a member of the Red Men's lodge at this place, and the Louisville lodge requested the Red Men at Coalton to take charge of the funeral. Mr. Hughes was a sober, industrious man, whose many friends and relatives in this section will regret to learn of his death.

(Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Muncaster, of Zanesville, O., are rejoicing over the coming of a daughter—Mary Augusta.)

Gladys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Murray, has been quite sick for several days. She has throat trouble.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE.

Dr. George T. Conley and Miss Martha Vaughan, of Louisa.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Vaughan, this city, was the scene of a very pretty wedding last Tuesday morning, the parties most concerned being their daughter Martha and Dr. George T. Conley, of this city. For this auspicious occasion the interior of the home had been very beautifully decorated. The mother's well known love of flowers is shared by her daughter, and for her the parlor, sitting room and dining room were veritable bowers of blossoms. Friends had plucked and sent their choicest blooms and loving hands had arranged them so tastefully that their effect and perfume were pleasing to the many guests. Prior to the solemnization of the impressive rites the very many presents of beautiful china, glass and silver were inspected and admired. The bride is a very popular girl, and her many friends were generous in their evidences of love and esteem.

At 8:30 o'clock the Rev. O. P. Williams, Presiding Elder of the Ashland Conference, M. E. Church, South, took his place in the parlor, and to the ever appropriate Wedding March of Mendelssohn, well played by Miss Opal Spencer, the bride and groom elect stood before him, and in a few moments, by the ring ceremony of the Church the happy young people became man and wife. Both were appropriately dressed and looked very well indeed. The bride wore a most becoming traveling gown, the accessories being very handsome and of the most stylish mode. Just in time to take the train for Louisville Dr. and Mrs. Conley were driven to the depot, where many friends had gathered to shower them with rice and wish them a pleasant journey. They will return to Louisa in about a week and will then go to Williamson, W. Va., where the doctor will practice his profession.

ATHLETICS WORLD'S CHAMPIONS.

The fight for the world's championship in base ball was settled just before this paper went to press, the Philadelphia American League team winning over the New York National League. The Athletics won four out of six games, thus holding the title they won last October. The score of Thursday's game was 13 to 2.

THE OIL DEVELOPMENT.

Three wells in the Louisa oil field are now more than half way down to the Berea grit. The Hays Company, the Wayne Oil Company and the A. C. Smith Company are doing this work.

The Square Deal Company, with Sam Spencer as contractor, will soon have a well under way. Other companies are getting ready for development as rapidly as possible.

Unless he should have had luck, Tom Hayes will probably be the first contractor to complete a well. This is the Hays company well on the F. W. Meek farm near Busseyville. The Berea sand should be reached in about 10 days.

MCCHESNEY AT LOUISA.

We are informed that Harry V. McChesney will be sent to Louisa by the State Democratic Committee to make a speech sometime before the election. The date has not yet been announced. Mr. McChesney is one of the most effective campaigners in the State, many Lawrence county people know by having heard him. He is the only speaker in the State outside of the candidates who has drawn the fire of Senator Bradley. The latter devoted the greater part of a recent speech to trying to reply to McChesney.

CITY TICKETS FOR LOUISA.

Petitions for two city council tickets for Louisa have been filed, Democratic and Republican. A third ticket was filed, but the candidates withdrew.

The Democratic ticket is as follows: R. L. Vinson, C. C. Hill, M. G. Berry, H. G. Wollan, G. S. Wilson and J. B. Peters.

Republican ticket: C. L. Miller, D. J. Burchett, P. H. Vaughan, Henry Evans, James Hale and T. V. Heston.

ROBBED AND SHOT.

Jas. Justice Arrested for Robbing and Shooting Two Negroes.

A very serious case of robbery and attempted murder occurred Tuesday, the scene being the vicinity of Glen Hayes, an N. & W. station 10 miles east of Fort Gay, and the trouble began on a box car belonging to an east bound freight train. On top of the car were a couple of negroes and a white man named Jim Justice. One of the negroes foolishly showed some money, which was immediately seized by Justice at the point of a pistol. Justice followed up his robbery by throwing both of his victims off the car, and supplemented this dastardly act by shooting both. One of his victims was shot in the head and the other was shot twice, once in the leg and once in the hip. Some time after the shooting the negro who was robbed was sitting in a store at Glen Hayes, telling of outrage, when Justice walked in. "There's the man that got my money," he exclaimed, and the highwayman was immediately arrested and later brought handcuffed to Fort Gay. He was brought before Squire Billups, of Fort Gay who, in default of a bond for $1000, sent the defendant to Wayne for trial. Dr. Jay Darman took the wounded men to his office in Fort Gay and gave them proper attention.

It is said that Justice was originally from the Upper Blaine region, this county, and if the evidence on the final trial sustains the charges against him a later residence of some years at Meunsville awaits him.

DOUBLE TRACKS.

The C. and O. railway company has closed a deal with property owners on Louisa street near Latham's crossing, Catlettsburg. The following sold to the company: Mrs. Lucinda McCall, Wm. Smiley, Mrs. Gracey McCall, Wm. Cecil, Mrs. C. C. Magann, John Overstreet and Sarah Mays. Double tracks on the Big Sandy division will be extended from the Big Sandy junction to the freight depot.

CITY OF JENKINS.

More Interesting Facts About This Magic Place.

Further information received about the great development which the Consolidation Coal Co. is engaged upon in the Elkhorn coking coal region at and around Jenkins, Ky.,—which is a new town that the coal company is building in connection with its very extensive operations there show that rapid progress has been and is being made toward the attainment of its plans. There will be about 2000 houses in the town, and the Nicola Building Co. of Pittsburg, which has charge of the building operations, has erected more than a hundred of them. A clubhouse for the officers and engineers of the coal company is practically finished. It is a two-story building of attractive appearance. Foundations have been completed for a central store the business of which is now being conducted in temporary quarters, for a bank and post-office building and for an office building of the Consolidation Company. The building company does everything in connection with the construction of dwellings and other structures in the new town. It cuts the timber in the adjacent forests, saws and planes it into lumber, and is thus able to get most of its materials on the ground, it being only necessary to purchase the millwork—such as windows and doors—and also roofing nails and paint. There is, also a brickyard at Jenkins, and it is equipped with a steam drier so that bricks can be manufactured in the winter. The yard is run by electricity from the lighting plant. A limekiln is another feature of the place; it is already in operation. There are three sawmills on Elkhorn Creek and a large band mill on Wright's Fork. All of them have planers and drykyls and the lumbering is done under the direction of an experienced forester, so that no waste is permitted. Even limbs of trees are used for mine ties. The best poplar timber is being stored for sale after the railroad, the Sandy Valley & Elkhorn, 28 miles long and running from Jenkins down to Shelby, Ky., on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, is completed.

The town now has a bank, one having been established several weeks ago under a national charter. It is known as the Jenkins National Bank, and was a necessity, as the nearest bank was 25 miles away. The new institution is said to be of great value to the region, as it conducts a general banking business in addition to the business in connection with the town and the officials and employees of the coal company. The deposits are said to be rapidly increasing. There is also a postoffice with a daily mail service between Jenkins and Heller, Ky., between which points two hacks run carrying passengers and mails.

The temporary central store is reported to have transacted nearly $12,000 worth of business during August. Three other stores are being started—one on Lower Elkhorn Creek, one on Upper Elkhorn and the other on Wright's Fork. All three plants have been operating all summer.

Pending the completion of the railroad, supplies are being hauled to Jenkins on teams, which convey them from a narrow-gauge railroad that connects at Glamorgan, Va., with the Norfolk and Western Railway. There were recently 23 teams engaged in thus hauling material over the mountains.

The clubhouse is situated near Camp Crawford, which is the temporary residence of the manager. The ground there has been laid out into lots upon which will be erected cottages for the manager, the superintendents, engineers, clerks, etc.

A meat shop is also in operation, the butchering being done in the town, as the haul is too long and tedious to get fresh meats from other points. Three permanent stables have been erected and are in use, caring for a total of 150 horses. It is planned to build a temporary ary Y. M. C. A. building with a pool and billiard room, bowling alleys, a barber shop, shower baths, a reading-room and other attractions. A moving picture show is also to be established for operation during the winter to provide recreation and amusement for the men. There are already about 1000 employes in and around Jenkins, but it is stated that good order has been maintained; their conduct being above reproach.

To provide drinking water success has been had with wells, about 50 being drilled, all giving good water the lower end of Elkhorn Creek has been cleared for a reservoir to contain 70,000,000 gallons of water, or a supply sufficient for the entire plant for 200 days. The dam is being built. Another dam is also being erected for a reservoir across Goodwater Branch, immediately back of Camp Crawford. It will contain 1,200,000 gallons of water, which will be used for drinking and cooking purposes.

On the railroad the grading and excavating is about 85 per cent. completed, and the bridge masonry is proportionately advanced. It is consequently expected that the line will be finished as rapidly as the bridge can be erected.

As for the mining development, it has been proceeding for four months. On main Elkhorn Creek eight mines are located, which are expected to have an output of 12,000 to 15,000 tons per day, and the workings are projected. The coal has been faced for the openings and the heading started on seven of the mines. On Wright's Fork several mines will also be opened with a capacity about the same as the others. They will be reached by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad extension now building. Grading the mine openings and starting the headings will begin within a short time. These developments are in Letcher county, Kentucky, Jenkins being several miles east of Whitesburg, which is the county-seat.

LARGE TANNERY BURNED.

Ashland Loses Immense Plant Valued at Half a Million.

One of the most disastrous fires that has ever visited Ashland was that of the Ashland Leather Company's plant, between 25th and 26th streets, and the C. and O. Company's tracks, last Monday night at seven o'clock. Just how the fire originated no one seems to know, but the supposition is that it originated from a hot-box in the tannery house.

It was evident at the outset that a great conflagration was at hand, and the local fire departments were entirely unable to check the flames. The distress call was put in for help from the fire departments of fronton and Catlettsburg, and these two cities responded as quickly as possible.

The combination was utterly unable to stay the progress of the flames, and buildings, equipment and finished stock all went up in smoke, entailing a loss of nearly half a million of dollars. The company had only a few days ago shipped one carload of leather which was worth $14,000. This fact gives one an idea of the value of the stock. This big loss was fairly well covered by insurance. One great calamity caused by this fire is that nearly 500 men are thrown out of employment, and it is not certain that the company will rebuild.

The officers of the Ashland Leather Company are T. J. Sharr, Pres.; A. F. Kruse, Secretary, and M. W. Mosser, Cashier.

SIX TICKETS ON BALLOT.

The ballots for the November election will contain six tickets: Democratic under the rooster, Republican under the log cabin, Prohibition under the phoenix, Socialists under cinsped hands across the globe, Socialist Labor under the arm and hammer, and People Party of America under the plow and sledge. A seventh column will have a place to vote on the stock law in such precincts as have called for it.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM MANY STATES

Important News Gathered from Abroad for the Benefit of Our Readers.

A Hickman county farmer cut 1,000 tons of alfalfa hay from a 100-acre field. The estimated value of the crop is $17,000.

Carlisle, Ky., Oct. 20.—Mrs. Oliver Berry, of near this place, is probably the youngest bride in this section of the State. She is 13 years of age, and was Miss Mary Alice Allen, daughter of Mr. Chas. Allen, of this county, and was married at the home of her father to Mr. Oliver Berry, a farmer, who is 25 years of age.

Mr. May Goff, a well known farmer, living near North Middletown, is cutting his crop of alfalfa. It is about two feet high and this makes the fourth crop that has been cut from this field this season. The yield has been about a ton per acre for each cutting. This field has been in alfalfa for eight years from the same sowing and shows no signs of deterioration.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 20.—The Kentucky Natural Gas Co. which supplies this city with light and fuel gas, held its annual meeting here today and re-elected its old directors and stockholders. In his annual report President Joseph Seep says:

"In the old Menfee county field sixteen wells were completed during the year ending October 1, 1911, eleven of which are producing and five dry, the company now having ninety-one producing wells."

Continuing, Mr. Seep adds that while the supply of gas from the Menfee county field is sufficient for present needs it is decreasing and that so far efforts to find new pools have been unsuccessful. He intimates that it may be necessary, in order to get the needed gas, to extend mains to the West Virginia field and as that will require a large outlay of cash, Mr. Seep recommends that all dividends be passed for a time "that the necessary money may be accumulated in the treasury for the purpose of perpetuating the business."

Averts Awful Tragedy.

Timely advice given Mrs. C. Wiloughby, a Marengo, Wis., it. No. 1, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. Doctors had said her frightful cough was a "consumption" cough and could do little to help her. After many remedies failed her aunt urged her to take Dr. King's New Discovery. "I have been using it for some time," she wrote "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with a severe bronchial trouble." This matchless medicine has no equal for throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by A. M. Hughes.

REUNION OF POWELL FAMILY.

It has been a custom for many years past for the children and of the Widow Nancy Powell to meet each year at the home of one of her children and celebrate her birthday. On the 18th of October they assembled at the old Powell home, now owned and occupied by Mrs. Rebecca Powell, widow of Joseph Powell, deceased. Mrs. Nancy Powell's maiden name was Smith and she was married to Durr Powell in 1832.

To them were born eleven children, of that number five have departed this life. Her husband departed this life 1857 at the age of 48 years. Mrs. Powell has reached the wonderful age of 94 years. She has been a woman of wonderful constitution, has always lived on the farm, was a constant hard worker as long as her strength would allow her. She has enjoyed good health during life, up to a short time ago. She retained her eye sight but her vision is now very dim, but her hearing is remarkably good. Her mind is clear, and memory of the past is surprising to all that know her. The following children were present at the dinner: Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, widow of Rev. J. H. Wright, deceased; Mrs. Karen Kinney, of Kavanaugh; Perry Powell, of Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Lydia Smiley, of Catlettsburg, Ky.; and quite a number close relatives. In all about seventy persons.

The dinner was well prepared and was of the very best, and in great abundance, and was well enjoyed by all present. Friends met friends that they had not seen for some time past.

Among the pleasant events of the day was the baptizing of an infant, said. Miss Birda Flaney, a near relative, by special request, performed the ceremony. The earnest and solemn manner in which she did it greatly impressed those present. After the close Rev. Richardson led in earnest prayer. During the day we had a number of beautiful songs with appropriate music. All around it was a very enjoyable day. Relatives and old friends met to shake each others' hands and talk pleasantly of the days gone by. The social relations were of the very best. There seemed to be nothing to mar the happiness of all present.

OUR SCHOOL DEPARTMENT.

Report of State Supervisor of Rural Schools.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 17, 1911.

Supt. Jay O'Daniel, Louisa, Ky.

Dear Supt. O'Daniel: I have the pleasure of herewith submitting to you a report of my itinerary through your county beginning on October 7, at Gallup and closing at Louisa, Saturday, Oct. 14th. On Monday I visited the schools of Miss Gypsy Thompson on Menfee Branch and of Mr. Nathan George on Georges Creek. Monday evening I spoke at Charley. On Tuesday I visited three schools—Mattle, Prosperity and Woods Fork, and at night I addressed the people at Blaine. On Wednesday I saw the schools on Upper Blaine and at Cherokee; and at night, I spoke at Webbville. On Thursday I visited the schools at Lick Fork and at Oliveville; at night, I was at Palsburg. On Friday I saw Prof. Ekers' school at Fallsburg and the school at Zelds. At night I spoke at Richardson. On Saturday I closed my work in your county for the time with an address at the Court House in Louisa. In all I visited eighteen points and delivered eighteen addresses. Everywhere I was greeted by large, enthusiastic, sympathetic audiences. During the week, addressed not fewer than five thousand people. At some points there were as many as six teachers present with their schools. My actual route, out of your county, was forty-two miles. I was present at these meetings. At Georges Creek the crowd was so great that we had to hold the meeting out doors. Many other houses were crowded until the people had to stand up. All these things indicate the great interest on the part of your people in education.

The subjects of my addresses at various points were: "The Value of Education to a People," "The Improvement of Environment," "Organization of a County's Schools," "Demonstration Schools," "The Re-direction of Rural Schools," "Consolidation of Schools and Transportation of Students."

It is understood that the schools visited are the ten which I am assisting you to supervise. I found that the census enrollment in these schools was 739 and that the enrollment in schools was 673. The attendance for three months had been 82 per cent of the school enrollment—a remarkable record when the roads and the work of the various communities are considered. I am sure that this excellent record is largely due to the fact that, by your direction, the teachers are visiting the patrons and securing their co-operation. From inquiries I made of other teachers I am convinced that the attendance of the entire county is quite as good as in the schools visited.

The teachers without exception are astute with success the State Course of Study. I learned that Prof. Ekers, of Fallsburg, had called around him a number of the young teachers and instructed them in the use of the Course of Study. This action was wise, patriotic and good. If one able and earnest teacher in each educational division would imitate Prof. Ekers in this respect, the schools of Lawrence county would be vastly improved. Teaching is a spiritual matter, and teachers should not forget to assemble themselves together to discuss their work and inspire each other.

One of the largest crowds that met me was at E. E. Wheeler's school on Upper Blaine. There was not standing room notwithstanding the rain. This teacher is doing excellent work for his community. Among the good things he has done, the organization of a large reading circle among his students impressed me very favorably. At most of the points visited the crowds were too large for the teachers to show the actual workings of the school.

I arrived at the Lick Creek school long enough before the people assembled to see much of its good work. The teacher is Miss Emma Thompson, a quiet little woman evidently greatly in earnest and very capable. Her school is one of the very few perfectly graded rural schools that I have ever seen. I saw all her reading classes recite; and, excepting the briefness of the periods, I've never seen better work done in city graded schools. The discipline of the room was perfect. At a light tap of the bell the class reciting and the next class would rise; at a second tap the reciting class would retire, and their places would be taken by the other class. Everything in order; voices low and well regulated; movements quiet and regular. What a joy it is to see a well ordered school. What it means for character. All this in a little mountain school. But this was not all. I made the following notes as I noticed the leaves of twenty-eight kinds of trees pinned to a piece of whip cord and labeled. This was study of the right kind; for should not a child know trees of his environment by bark, leaf and wood? Should he not know the birds at sight? And should he not know all these things in their relation to his life? This is education. The daily program was beautifully planned and in sight of all; and best of all it was scrupulously followed, thus teaching promptness—a great lesson. Beautiful flowers were on the perfectly arranged desk; a new water cooler was in the rear of the room; a wash pan and clean towels were by the door, and every child had a clean face and nicely combed hair and more the finger nails were clean. The Fifth Reader class was reading Miles Standish with appreciation; while the Fourth Reader class had a lesson in voice culture. Ah, but it was a sight to see this little woman training their voices and body. There were new shades perfectly laundered and curtains over the lower part of the windows. The children had made a book case; handwork with paper was in evidence. I learned that this was done at noon. In the windows were two boxes; in one growing corn, in the other wheat. The stand of corn was perfect; one stack of wheat was missing. Here was some basis for nature study, language work and real arithmetic. Eg. If 12 grains of wheat are planted and eleven germinate, what percent failed to sprout? It is so easy to fill the old traditional subjects full of real life, if the teacher is awake. I noticed on the teachers desk a copy of Mr. Harland Cook book, and was informed that the girls were using it. Great, wasn't it? And would you believe it? The material for a drawing lesson, some sprigs of golden rod had been prepared by the teacher before school; and when the time came for the lesson the class went to work upon it without a word from the teacher. How is that for systematic? A thermometer was on the wall. The morning was cool; but it seemed to me that the miracy of zeal, system, order, enthusiasm, loyalty was at 100 degrees. What this little teacher had done, any teacher can do. By describing at such length this school, I do not mean to intimate that these things are not found in the others. On the contrary, I want to convey the idea that when your County Board and the people are ready for a better organization of your schools, you already have the teachers.

Monthly Examinations. It was a great pleasure to learn that your teachers were following the Course of Study month by month; and that you were requiring the teachers to hold regular monthly examinations. I was informed that the local trustee must certify from his own knowledge that the examinations had been properly held before the teachers' salary would be paid. This is real supervision—a thing our rural schools have long needed. I am sure that efficient supervision would increase the value of the rural schools at least 100 per cent. I desire to express my unqualified approval of your method of requiring the teachers to make grade cards to the children each month and to keep an accurate record of their grades. This is system. Your plan of having your teachers report good things from their schools in the local paper seems wise and good. It enables your teachers to do team work—a hard thing to do in scattered schools. Your idea of recommending good books to your teachers and of keeping trace of their reading is excellent. In fact you are doing for your rural teachers what up-to-date city superintendents are doing for city teachers. Let me say here that until the country recognizes the fact that rural schools need supervision as much as city schools the country schools will suffer in comparison with city schools.

Suggestions.

Based upon my observations of your schools and a first hand study of your school conditions, I desire to make the following suggestions for the good of the children of your county. 1. Supervision.—The excellent results now being obtained by some of your teachers would be secured by all of them under proper supervision. It is folly to spend $33,000 to educate your children without looking after it carefully. In a county as large as yours, the supervisor should be in the field every day. You ought not to be confined to one visit a year. My own experience in your county leads me to believe that it is possible to visit your schools each month. This ought to be done. Two things, I learn, are in the way. First—your office work; second the expense of extra visits. The County Board ought to find some way to overcome these two drawbacks. Someone ought to be employed to do office work when you are in the field; and to do field work when you are in the office. It would be real economy. It would save the county money and the children's life.

2. Organization. Your schools ought to be reorganized along modern lines as fast as public opinion and conditions will permit. At such points as Blaine, Webbville, Fallsburg and Richardson, consolidated schools ought to be organized. They can be if the people around those places are alive to their best interests. Consolidated schools are better and cheaper than one-room schools. They are the schools of the future. There is no record of a community ever going back to one-room schools after having consolidated schools.

Where large consolidated schools cannot be maintained, two room schools ought to be established; for a two-teacher school is far more efficient than a one-teacher school.

Of course there are some places where a one-room school must be maintained for years to come. In such schools only the best teachers should be employed. It takes a genius to teach one efficient one-room school.

The County Board of Education should see to it that a demonstration school be maintained in each educational division—a school which will be a model for all the rest.

3. Environment.—It is impossible to over-estimate the force of environment in the development of character. Therefore every teacher in Lawrence County should make a great effort to improve the environment. It might be a good idea to offer a prize for the best kept school house and yard.

4. If a number of your good merchants in Louisa, Blaine, etc., would make up about $100 in prizes, and the teachers would organize a school fair to be held sometime after the schools close, it would go a long way toward bettering the schools.

Permit me to say in conclusion, that from what I have seen of your county I think its future lies along agricultural lines. Your labor is about done, your time is passing. You have some coal and some oil; but the biggest assets are your fertile valleys suited to heavy farming and your upland suited to grazing and dairying. To build up such a community life, two things are absolutely necessary. Good roads and Good Schools; and both of these Lawrence County can have if she will. WILL SHE DO IT?

Very truly,

LAST CALL FOR HELP

People have come from far and near to attend the first part of our sale, and are still coming. Many and many of our choice bargains were swept away like chaff before the wind, but with

Lots of Fall and Winter Purchases Coming in Late Shipments

we have enough to stand the onslaughts of the throngs of people for several days yet.

Don't Miss Our

Money Raising Sale

Our competitors groan and complain and even say hard things about us, but we have no apology to make. Simply a case of swim or sink with us. We have got to raise enough money to meet our obligations by the 1st of November or go to the wall, and we are not going to do that if of ready-to-wear garments for both men and women, boys and girls will save us. You need not expect to ever get such bargains in Louisa again. All we can say to the people is to come and get a share of the bargains while they last. There is one thing certain; if we had not got too deep in debt you would have been paying the regular prices for your merchandise this month instead of sacrificing prices. Do you appreciate that fact? You doubtless know it is so. Then come and help us pull through and we will remain as your friend where you had none before.

Sale Began on Thursday, Oct. 19, and Ends Saturday, Nov. 4

A cablegram says the Duke de Abruzzi has taken Tripoli. Let's see, isn't he the Egyptian who tried to take Kity Elkins?

Half our parents are women, remarks a lady advocate of votes for women.

But the converse of this proposition is hardly true.

If Republicans were as scarce all over the state as they are in Elliott county they would have to get on the ballot by petition.—Elliott County Democrat.

President Taft will spend November 8 in Louisville. He will be in Frankfort November 9, and will go from there to Hodgenville to attend the Lincoln Farm celebration, November 10.

According to John Arkuckle the tariff on raw sugar is a "most wicked" tax.

John knows what he is talking about. Vote the Democratic ticket, and help remove it.

Judge O'Rear says he wants to divorce the schools from politics but he is careful to put his candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction headquarters in Western Kentucky.

Congressman Ben Johnson comes out in his speeches with the specific charge that it cost $65,000 to get four Democrats to vote for Bradley and thus elect him to the United States Senate.

Judge O'Rear spoke at Glasgow and invited his audience to attend his inauguration at Frankfort as Governor of Kentucky. He said those who chewed tobacco could spit their "chaws" on the carpet if they could find no other place.

Under the ruling of Secretary Brainer—right, he is!—the Democratic ticket is to be given first place on the ballot. It will also be given the first place in the count, the official certificate and in the inaugural proceedings under the ruling of the Democratic party.

Dr. J. F. Wade, candidate for the Legislature from the district composed of Boyd and Lawrence, is not a politician, but he is a most excellent and conscientious citizen—sensible, upright, clean and trustworthy. He can be trusted to do the right thing at all times. In England, where he has lived ever since he moved from Lawrence, he is receiving the support of almost everybody, which shows how good a man he is.

Before the Republican State Convention, Governor Willson said: "Judge O'Rear's nomination would be a calamity to the Republican party in Kentucky, and I think his nomination would mean sure defeat for the republican party this fall." Along about that time Colonel E. T. Franks, of Owensboro, said the nomination and election of Judge O'Rear would "sound the death knell of civil liberty in Kentucky." Neither of these gentlemen has ever retracted or retracted their statements.

Our singing school will close on next Sunday. It is progressing nicely. A large crowd attended last Sunday.

Our pie social held here on October 21st, ended with a grand success. We had 21 pies and 3 cakes. The highest pie went at two dollars. Two cakes at twelve dollars. We had the sum of twenty-four dollars and 10 cents at the close of the social. This sum is to be invested in our school library.

Our school here at Tar Kinn is getting along nicely. We have good attendance and an excellent teacher. Death has entered our neighborhood and taken from us our dear friend, Mrs. Ollie McGloire, of Davisville, who had been lingering for a long time with the dreaded disease known as tuberculosis. As she was a true Christian to her dearest friends, "Weep not," as we know she is your loss, but Heavens gain.

Enoch Wheeler was married to Miss Ester Ramey, of Davisville, Oct. 12, we wish them a happy life and a long one.

This remedy was used for a weak and lame back, caused by disordered kidneys and it made a complete and permanent cure. I willingly allow the publication of my former testimonial."

VENERABLE LADY.

Mrs. M'fred Shearer, who resides with her grand niece, Miss Nellie Swetnam, on Medley Hill, is one of the most interesting aged ladies in the city, and has probably seen the roses bloom more frequently than any other lady in this section. Mrs. Shearer is now in her ninetieth year, and is still quite active and does considerable of the work about her home. Just because she belongs to that class that will work because they like it. But it is in the retention of her mental faculties, that Mrs. Shearer excels not only the average person of her age, but almost any one of her age.

SHOT A PHYSICIAN.

Miss Addie Cook Wounded Dr. J. E. McDonald at Logan, W. Va.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 24. — Yesterday afternoon Miss Addie Cook, who shot Dr. J. E. McDonald in his office at Logan, Saturday night, was released under bond of $2100 to appear for a preliminary hearing on a charge of slandering with intent to kill. Anthony Cook, a wealthy land owner, and an uncle of the girl, became her bondsman.

It was stated last night that Dr. McDonald, who was shot through the right lung, would recover, barring unlooked for complications. The tragedy has stirred the town of Logan as few incidents happening there have ever done. Dr. McDonald is one of the most prominent men in Logan county, being a leading physician and one of the big men in Logan county politics. His adventure with Miss Cook dates back over a period of several years and involves some unpleasant bits of family history. It is said that following a sensational episode, Miss Cook was sent to school and given a business education, and that, at the time of the attempted killing of Dr. McDonald she was employed as a stenographer in the law office of Senator E. T. England.

As far as can be discovered there were no eye witnesses to the tragedy, though many persons in the lower part of the building and on the streets nearby heard the shots fired, and later saw Miss Cook come down the stairs and go away. Three shots were fired. Dr. McDonald was in his office, and according to the accepted theory of the affair, Miss Cook entered the hallway outside of his office and fired through a glass door which was closed. The first shot, it is presumed, broke the glass, giving the girl fair sight. The second or third shot struck the mark, and the other missed and was imbedded in the wall.

After the shooting Miss Cook went to the Alderson building, where she was arrested by Detective Bert Bush, a Baldwin man located at Logan. It is said she went to jail singing and careens of the terrible crime charged against her.

Miss Cook, who is 25, is described as being a comely young woman of more than ordinary intelligence. She is the daughter of C. J. Cook, a very prominent farmer of Huff Creek, in the southern part of Wyoming county, and is related to many of the best people in Wyoming and Logan counties. The affair is regarded as being the outcome of an unfortunate relationship, and is greatly regretted by the friends of both parties.

Dr. McDonald was formerly a representative of Logan county in the legislature, and has always been prominent in Logan county politics. Miss Cook, it is said, expresses no regret over the affair and it is said that she will plead justification for the shooting.

CORROBORATE THE STORIES.

Relatives and friends of the two Hatfield boys, who were shot and killed in Fayette county, corroborate the stories of the affair that were published recently and aver that neither Elias Hatfield nor Troy Hatfield was at fault when their lives were suddenly snuffed out by an Italian named Octavo Geroule, who himself perished in the melee.

It was stated by a Fayette county constable who accompanied the party that Elias Hatfield had first entered the cabin occupied by the Italian, and that without warning, he had fired at the visitor. Then he turned his gun on Troy Hatfield who had followed his brother into the room. The younger Hatfield was wounded in the wrist but managed to draw a gun with the other hand and shot the Italian dead. Before that had been accomplished, however, Hatfield had received a wound that caused his own death half an hour later.

It was asserted that the Hatfields had gone to the Italian's cabin with peaceable intentions, hoping to adjust some little differences that had arisen.

PIKE COUNTY DEMOCRATS.

Pikeville, Ky., Oct. 25. — This was a Democratic mass election held in the court house Sunday. It endorsed and nominated all the candidates put out by the Citizens ticket some months ago. It also nominated J. E. Ratliff and H. Pauley, Republican candidates, the former for county court clerk and the latter for sheriff. Thus the fraud that was being gotten up by the Republicans to put on a bogus Democratic ticket was exposed.

STREET SERVICES.

Three colored people, two women and one man, were here lately, holding religious services, their first meeting was on the street. Last afternoon, when they sang and prayed and talked to a large crowd on the Louisa National Bank corner. The woman, who did most of the singing and all the speaking, had a voice like a fog-horn and no musical. The brother departed on the afternoon down train, but the women remained until Monday, holding two or three services in the Court House.

"POOLS OF WATER."

The Rev. Wisor, of the Presbyterian Church, preached an interesting and scholarly discourse to a large audience at the M. E. Church South, last Sunday evening. He drew some important and useful lessons from the "parched ground" and the "pools of water" and the mirages of the countries of the far Orient showing how the parched earth could be made pools of living water and the mirages transformed to realities instead of illusions. Mr. Wisor warned the young men and women present of the utter impossibility of making some of the mirages of life become happy realities. He spoke of the innocent, healthful sports of young men as eminently proper, condemning base ball as a Sunday amusement. Mr. Wisor was attentively listened to by all included.

log a large number of nice looking, well behaved boys, whose good behavior on this occasion was a rebuke to some of the other sex.

Mr. Wisor spoke admiringly of the singlog and of the pleasure he felt in hearing the grand old hymns of the church, and how good they sounded to him, after years of "rag time" music on the frontier. His feelings about rag time music is the church is felt by many. The two-step measure of some of the songs—it's almost sacrilege to call them hymns—followed by the swing and blt of the cherus are often more suggestive of vaudeville than of the house of God.

POLITICAL MATTERS.

Interesting Reading About the Kentucky Campaign.

The most significant feature of this campaign is the revolt of the business interests against O'Rear.

They have watched him during the past two months of the campaign, listened to his mutterings and threatenings and weighing him in the balance they have found him wanting. They believe that his election would not promote law and order in the State, and that from the position he has taken up several critical periods in the history of the Commonwealth, it would not be wise to elevate him to the Governorship.

It has been charged that Caleb Powers is not taking an active part in the campaign because Judge O'Rear refused to answer Governor McCreary's question, whether he approved of the pardon of Powers by Governor Willson. While the most famous of the Oebel conspirators may bear some resentment because O'Rear has not shown the courage to approve Willson's course in this matter he is still too good a politician to injure his future chances by showing any open resentment against Judge O'Rear. If there is one quality that Caleb Powers does not lack, it is faith in his own star.

He considers his election to Congress as only a partial reward for his years of imprisonment on the charge of murder and confidently looks forward to higher honors. It will be observed that he pushes himself to the front on every occasion, seeking the applause that is such rich music to his ear. At the recent Republican convention, he co-operated with O'Rear in the writing of the platform and did not hesitate to cast the deciding vote against the plank which contains Governor Willson's name and an approval of his administration and his policy.

Powers is willing to make any political alliance that will advance his cause. If the Republicans carry the Legislature, he will be a candidate for the United States Senate and if Judge O'Rear is elected Governor, and there is a vacancy in the United States Senate, he will be found at Frankfort, demanding that the toga be placed upon his shoulders.

When Judge O'Rear gets on that special train in the Eleventh District he will have Caleb Powers to share honors with Senator Bradley, who has also promised to lend the dignity of his presence.

If there is any Democrat in Kentucky who thinks of casting his vote for Judge O'Rear, he ought to watch Caleb Powers' activities in this campaign, and then decide if he can afford to be found in such company.

The best that O'Rear can do is to promise that if a Democratic Legislature does not follow his instructions he will keep them in session two years at an expense of over $1000 a day. Governor McCreary will be able to enact into law every plan on this platform, because his party will be in control of both houses, and will not dare to violate the promises so sacredly made.

A Cause For Laughter.
Judge O'Rear's bitter denunciation of the lobby coupled with his commendation of the result of the work of the lobby in electing Senator Bradley to the United States Senate, reminds us of a poem that was written by one of Lexington's most brilliant sons, John Hunt Morgan, when another distinguished Republican was making loud protestations of his purpose to "bust the trust." Mr. Morgan wrote:

There was a great Trust buster
Who said with noise and bluster
"I'll bust each trust from core to crust,"

"Till naught but dust it'll muster."
There was no thought of chaffing,
One might goblet quaffing,
He hit the trust an awful thrust,
And the poor trust burst out — laughing.

How the lobby must laugh at the denunciation coming out of one side of O'Rear's mouth and praise of Senator Bradley's election coming out of the other side. — Lexington Herald.

Judge O'Rear Attempts to Dodge Questions.

Judge O'Rear's speech at Covington on Tuesday night. Before the meeting, certain questions were asked him by the Editor of the Post of that City, all of them relating to State issues, and most of them important. The only reference Judge O'Rear made to these embarrassing inquiries was that every little whipper snapper in the State was asking him questions, and that if he attempted to answer them it would keep him busy until the end of the campaign.

The Republican nominee has acquired the dodging habit. Early in the contest, Governor McCreary propounded to him a number of questions, that are foremost in the minds of the voters, and Judge O'Rear has not answered one of them. He prefers to misrepresent the Democrats, reflect upon the sincerity of their platform and otherwise appeal to the partisanship of his followers.

In accepting his nomination, he promised, if elected, to destroy the free pass evil, and in every speech he has made since that time he has renewed this pledge, but when asked if it were not true that his family rode on railroad passes, he declined to answer this pertinent inquiry.

When Governor McCreary wanted to know how he could recougle his selection of McCulloch, the millionaire whiskey man, as Chairman of his Finance Committee, with his expressed views on the evils of selling and drinking whiskey, he was as silent as the little boy that the cult ran over.

This tumble aside-stepping on the part of O'Rear will continue until the end of the contest. He has never met a direct charge, or answered a single question from the beginning of the campaign until this good hour, and he never will do so, so long as there is danger of his losing votes by stating his positions on these important issues.

Senator Bradley and Lillard, the Bolter.

When Senator Bradley gets on that special train, and gives to O'Rear that support which he so far has denied him, it is to be hoped that he will make a fuller explanation of his relations with Ex-Representative Lillard, the bolting Democrat who voted for him for the Senate. There is much curiosity as to the particular period when Bradley promised Lillard the position he now holds as Assistant Secretary to Bradley, at $1200 a year.

What are the facts about Lillard's career at Danville? The official records show that he was indicted forty-five times for selling liquor in local option territory. Finally, when the officers had run him to cover, and there was no way for him to escape, he compromised with the Commonwealth, by signing a written pledge never to sell liquor again in Boyle county, either in his own name, or in the name of another.

This shows the character of man Lillard was even before he betrayed his party and voted for Bradley. After he had so debased himself, the people of Danville hung him in effigy, and gave further evidence of their disapproval of his course.

As Judge O'Rear thinks Bradley is "the greatest living Kentuckian" and approves of his acts, he is, no doubt, willing to let the Senator in giving a badly needed certificate of character to Lillard, who ought to be taken with them on that special train, and marked "Exhibit A" as an evidence on what lobby at Frankfort can do when it tries its hand.

Improvement in Schools Due to Democrats.

To listen to the Republican speakers, one would think that the Republican party in Kentucky had originated the common school system, and were the only people that could be trusted to bring it to perfection. As every friend of education in the State knows, there is no law on the Statute book in regard to education that was not put there by Democratic Legislators, and while Kentucky has not made the advancement in this respect that it should have done, great progress is being made, and with the election of Governor McCreary, further improvement is sure to follow. The fact that we have better teachers, who are paid better salaries, and that there are more schools in Kentucky now than ever before, is all due to the reorganization of the public school system under the School Board. This Act was passed in 1908 by a Democratic Legislature, and was drawn by Mr. J. A. Sullivan, who is Governor McCreary's close personal friend, and a member of his Campaign Committee. The Democratic party can be trusted to build upon this admirable foundation a noble superstructure that will place Kentucky where it belongs, among the greatest educational States in the Union.

If Judge O'Rear knows any way to compel the tobacco trusts to pay twelve cents for tobacco, he ought to communicate his secret to the Attorney General of the State, who is a Republican, and to Governor Willson, who is likewise a Republican, and let them put the machinery of the law into operation, so that the guilty will be punished, and the innocent will come into their reward.

Senator Bosworth, who led the fight for good roads in the last Legislature, and who is a very popular man with his people, has been re-nominated by the Republicans. He has many friends in the Seventeenth District, but his enemies have brought out an independent Republican, and are waging a bitter warfare upon him. As the District is hopelessly Republican, the Democrats have made no nomination.

The Evening Post which helped to force O'Rear's nomination, and which is his chief organ, is making a relentless fight against Senator Bosworth. Although he is the nominee of the party, it is urging the Republicans of his District to vote against him, and is doing all in its power to accomplish his defeat.

There is not a weak spot in the Democratic Ticket. It is the ablest and clearest lot of candidates ever presented to the people. They can be depended upon to carry out their platform pledges.

Trading on the Court's Opinions.

Judge O'Rear hardly crossed the line into the Eleventh District before he began to remind the mountain people that he had written the opinion which had perfected the titles to their lands, and made their homes secure. That is true, but it is only half true. Judge

HIS TROUBLE NOT OF HEART

Real Facts in Regard To F. R. Huffman's Illness. Relief Obtained By Curing His Stomach Ailments.

Waynesville, N. C.—Mr. F. R. Huffman, of this city, says: "I suffered dreadfully with what I thought was heart trouble, and tried various remedies in vain.

After other remedies had failed, Thorford's Black-Draught restored me to health. I would not feel safe without Black-Draught in the house. I consider it worth its weight in gold.

It cured my indigestion, and by this means I was restored to health. I can not express my gratitude for its benefits."

Good health depends on the condition of your digestion. Poor digestion and good health do not go together.

Thorford's Black-Draught will thoroughly cleanse and set in order your digestive system.

It has done this for others, during the past 70 years, and is today the most popular vegetable liver remedy on the market. Try it.

Insist on Thorford's. Price 25c.

O'Rear could not have put that decision upon the books had not his fellow-Judges, all Democrats, empowered him to do so. It was not a political decision, nor was it the result of personal influence or persuasion. It was a just verdict, which the Supreme Court of the United States upheld, and it not only secured to the mountain people their humble homes, but made it possible for capital to build railroads, open mines and bring timber to market, and otherwise uncover the riches of that marvelous section. There was general rejoicing all over Kentucky when this decision enfranchised the mountain people. Politics had nothing to do with it, and Judge O'Rear had just one vote on the question.

It becomes the Judge of the Court of Appeals to point to his decisions, and remind the people who profited by them that his hand wrote them, and that for this reason he should receive their generous consideration. It is not only against the ethics of the Judge's profession for him to do this, but it brings the whole Court in disrepute to have its decisions placed upon the bargain counter as if they were matters of barter and sale.

The more the people of the State see of the Republican nominee for Governor, the more they will realize that instead of a broad, liberal, fair-minded Judge, holding the balances level with a firm hand, he has become the time-serving politician, appealing to every petty prejudice, and seeking every advantage.

One of the most effective speakers on the Democratic Ticket is Mr. J. W. Newman, candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture. His appeals to the farmers have done much to increase their interest in the Democratic Campaign. Being a farmer himself, he knows what is needed to make Kentucky the greatest agricultural State in the Union and during his service as State Senator, he advocated every law that would bring prosperity to the farmer, and relieve him from unfair burdens.

As Secretary of the State Fair, Mr. Newman was in position to realize how much the Kentucky farmer has progressed in the last few years, and how his stock and his crops keep pace with those produced by rival States. His efforts laid the foundation for the success of the State Fair, and his eloquent speeches at Frankfort secured appropriations that could never have been gained otherwise.

When Mr. Newman becomes Commissioner of Agriculture, the political rows and schemes that have brought disgrace upon that department will be at an end. The Democracy is fortunate in having not only a trained law-maker, but a practical farmer, at the head of this important branch of the Government.

Chairman McCulloch, of Judge O'Rear's Finance Committee, invented "Green River Whiskey," which he assures the world is "without a headache in a barrel of it." When McCulloch wrote his famous circular begging funds for the Republican Ticket, he gave O'Rear such a headache that he will never recover from it. The temperance voters will put another bead on the Judge in November.

Kentucky Needs a Democratic Senator.

In some quarters, it has been customary to accept Ollie James as a big, genial fellow, who could talk till the cows came home, and whom every body liked to call by his first name. But this Campaign has developed new traits in Ollie. They will have to accept him at his full worth in the future. He has lost none of that fine, frank manliness that surrounds him with an atmosphere of his own, and makes him the most delightful and lovable of companions, but he has betrayed a knowledge and acumen that shows that he is not only a ready and eloquent speaker, but a thinker and student as well, whose knowledge of the law and history of his country is surpassed by few men in public life.

Whenever Mr. James has spoken, neither Court House nor Opera House has been able to accommodate the crowds that wanted to hear him. They like the music of his resonant voice; they enjoy his mighty thrusts at the Republicans; they laugh with him at the ineptness of O'Rear, and applaud him when he tears the mask from that arch pretender, the Republican party.

Every Democratic voter should remember that when he places his stamp under the rooster, on November 7th, he will not only vote to elect all the State officers, but he will vote as well for a Legislature that will send Ollie James to the Senate, there to take his place as a defender of the people's right, with his sword unsheathed against the robber tariff and the criminal trusts.

While Mr. James is not neglecting State issues, he is telling the people what a Republican President and a Republican Congress has been doing in Washington, and the exposure of their broken pledges has convinced the people that Kentucky cannot afford to send to Washington a follower of Taft, or an imitator of Bradley.

Have you noticed that Judge O'Rear is the only candidate for office that can be believed? Every statement made about him is false; every critic is a "liar"; every proof of his acrobatic maneuvering; the Galt House meeting was never held; McCulloch, the whiskey man, never solicited funds for him; nothing ever happened if it is calculated to lose him a vote. The people are rapidly taking the measure of this judicial deder and hair-splitter.

Judge O'Rear employs every opportunity to drag religion into this contest, but it has no place there, and the people have given him no encouragement. No man stands higher in the Church than Governor McCreary. He is a practical Christian, showing by his daily life that he follows the precepts of his Master. Temperate, virtuous, honest and fair, he is an example to his fellow-men.

CHAS. R. PARKS DEAD.

Chas. R. Parks, formerly of Wayne county, W. Va., died at his home at Elk City, Oregon, Oct. 6, 1911, age 91 years. He moved there with his family in 1888.

Mr. Parks was a Confederate soldier and served with Rev. S. F. Reynolds, of this place, who speaks in the highest terms of his bravery and integrity. He was married twice, first to Miss Margaret Buskirk and next to Miss Cosher Lewis. The latter and three sons and two daughters survive him. Mr. Parks was a member of the M. E. Church, South, for sixty years.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

Our old friend, the Flemingburg Times-Democrat, came to us last week enlarged to seven columns and with its local pages on the outside. Mr. Duly publishes an excellent newspaper, clean in print and tone. Its editor is a staunch defender of the right and a staunch opposer of the wrong. Waging an especial war on the "murder-joke." The News congratulates its contemporary for its improved appearance.

John Thompson, age 59, was killed by an N. and W. train near Kenova Wednesday morning. Some old story of double track, two salus passing.

TOM CHAFFIN GETS TWO YEARS.

After one of the hardest fought legal battles in the history of Mingo county, Tom Chaffin was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the Criminal Court in Williamson last week.

It is understood that the defendant's attorneys will at once take an appeal as they confidently expected a verdict of acquittal. A motion to set aside the verdict was argued at great length but Judge Sampselle overruled it.

Sentence was then passed on Chaffin and he was given two years in the penitentiary.

The details of the double tragedy in which W. It. Hoskins, mayor of Matewan and Justice of the peace of Magnolia district, and Walter E. Musick, Chief of Police of Matewan, lost their lives at the hands of Tom Chaffin, are well known.

Chaffin claims that when the two officers came to his home he tried to avoid any clash but fearing they meant to harm him got his pistol and went out the back door to the cow house. Musick came in on him, he claims, and was beating him over the head with a gun when he fired the two shots that ended Musick's life.

Chaffin claims also that Mayor Hoskins then started to hit him with a blackjack when he fired two at him.

CLEAN UP THE FARM.

An important task for the fall months is the cleaning up of fence rows, cutting of weeds and burning of trash that has accumulated during the summer. There are several reasons why it is important to do this, but the two main reasons are that it improves the appearance of the place and aids in the control of injurious insects.

Many insects pass the winter under trash, weeds, etc., and if this unsightly stuff is removed they will not easily find winter quarters and will be killed by the freezing weather.

RESULTS ANXIOUSLY AWAITED.

A local newspaper recently announced the marriage of a Miss Coon, of near Ashland, to a Mr. Wolf, of the same locality. The union of the oddly named couple has caused much interest in the neighborhood, and results are anxiously awaited.

The same authority says that when Gen. Ed. Hughes, the County Clerk who issued the license heard the names of the contracting parties "he was stricken by the anomaly." He will recover, but hopes it will not happen again.

MAY BE A KENTUCKIAN.

Justice Harlan's successor on the Supreme Bench of the United States may be a Kentuckian. The fact became known Tuesday that the President would very likely give consideration, in connection with the appointment, to Judge A. M. J. Cochran, of Mayville, who presides over the Federal Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky.

When the Eastern district of Kentucky was created, some seven years ago it was Mr. Taft's telegram to President Roosevelt which resulted in the nomination of Judge Cochran to the bench. Mr. Taft and the Judge are personal friends.

BAPTIZED BY A WOMAN.

A novel and interesting feature of the birthday anniversary celebration at the old Widow Powell home recently was the baptizing of a child by a woman. The infant was a grandchild of Mrs. Powell and the officiating preacher was Miss Brl- (Phoebe), who has often been heard in this city. It was probably the first instance of the kind that has occurred in the valley of the Big Sandy. Mrs. Powell is now 91 years old.
